Membership Queries Return Products — Zero Help Content

When a member types 'cancel subscription' into your search bar, they see lingerie instead of the cancellation steps. This is your most frustrated customer segment — the search experience makes it worse.

72% of ecommerce sites have mediocre or broken search experiences; frustrated members who can't find answers churn at 2-3x the rate of satisfied members

Algolia solution: Algolia Federated Search indexes both your product catalog AND your help center (help.savagex.com) in separate indices, then surfaces the right content type based on query intent. 'Cancel subscription' → help article. 'Red bra' → products. Case study →

Member Credits Query Returns Lingerie — Churn Risk

Your members are paying $59.95/month and don't know how to use their credits. When they search 'member credits', they get a blanket. This friction causes skip-months and cancellations — directly reducing the subscription revenue that funds your business.

'Member credits' is a top organic search term for savagex.com (SimilarWeb landing page data) — indicating widespread, recurring confusion among the $59.95/month subscriber base

Discovery Call — Kevin Patrick Reyes

Schedule 30-minute call with VP Performance Marketing & Ecommerce. Lead with the membership query findings (cancel subscription → products). Ask: 'What's your member skip rate, and have you correlated it with search failure data?' CMO seat is vacant — this is the window.

Technical Proof of Concept

2-week POC on savagex.com search using Algolia React InstantSearch connected to a mirror of their Constructor.io catalog. Test 5 queries from the audit: 'cancel subscription', 'gifts for girlfriend', 'plus size bra', 'member credits', 'matching set for date night'. Compare results side-by-side. SXF already runs 30 experiments/quarter — this fits their culture.
